Outsiders blamed

Fighting disrupts seniors' 'last day'

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

The celebration of the last day in school for seniors at Romulus High was shattered when a fight, described as a "racial altercation", broke out in a lavatory of the school.

Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol juvenile officers report that more than a dozen students became involved in a fight at 8 a.m. Friday when two men, described as "outsiders," aimed racial slurs at some black students using a lavatory near the guidance office.

Although police answered a call of trouble at the school, officers made no arrests and took only two students who were more than 17-years-of age to the road patrol offices for questioning.

Romulus High School Principal Joel Carr described the incident as "clearly racial," but added that it was "spontaneous" and not the type of a racial incident which brews for some time.

"Usually, you can predict these sort of things will happen," said Carr Monday. "But this incident was spontaneous and happened without warning."

"There appears to be no specific reason and was no forwarding."

"It just happened."

Carr said 14 students were expelled from school for an indefinite period of time after taking part in the altercation.

"We can't stand for this kind of nonsense," he added. "A vast majority of the students at this school come here for an education, and we don't need this sort of an affair disrupting the schedule."

Carr has scheduled conferences with parents of the students involved in the incident to explain the reasons for the expulsions. Following the conferences, the principal will take further disciplinary action, possibly requiring an appearance before the Romulus Board of Education of any students involved.

Although many students were involved in the fight, Carr said there were no serious injuries "other than a few bloody noses and black eyes, and a possible broken nose."

No weapons were used in the incident, he added.

Operations at Romulus High returned almost to normal within minutes of the early-morning fracas, according to the principal. However, officers of the Sheriff's Road Patrol were asked to patrol the halls, and a concert scheduled for Friday evening was cancelled.

"I decided to cancel the concert because of the possible explosive nature of the situation," Carr said.

"I wanted to avoid any chance of trouble," he added.

In addition to the students who were forced to leave school after becoming involved in the fight, several students left at the request of their parents, according to Carr. "A parent always has the right to remove his child from school," Carr continued. "But I wouldn't say there was a mass exodus from the school because of the incident."

"Operations were nearly normal, except for the police officers in the school."

Carr said school returned to normal Monday, although teachers at the school were "tense" for the first couple of hours of classes.

"Attendance is normal, and there have been no problems," the principal added.

Carr is continuing an investigation into the incident to weigh the amount of disciplinary action. In addition, officers of the Sheriff's Department are seeking the two men said to be the cause of the altercation.

The principal said he will press charges against the two outsiders, if they are apprehended by the sheriff. The two persons believed to be the cause of the fight by sheriff's officers, were described as "trouble makers" who are known to the police agency.

Carr said that although the combatants in the altercation drew sides along racial lines "many of them have been friends with each other for years."

"This is not the kind of thing where the trouble has been brewing for some time," he added. "It's just a thing where the combination of hurt feelings and some pressure because of the end of the year activities sparked a confrontation among some students."

County wins, loses in airport expansion

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Romulus residents won one round and lost another with the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) in a battle to halt expansion of Detroit Metropolitan Airport until the road authority "owns up" to damage it is doing to the community.

A federal District Court judge ruled against the WCRC in a request for $3.9 million to continue expansion of the airport, while granting a request for the use of $2.6 million to finish work already started in conjunction with expansion plans.

The action came after the WCRC petitioned the court for release from part of an order banning the use of federal funds for airport expansion, pending the filing of an environmental impact statement on the effect the expansion would have on the Romulus community.

Mayor Terry L. Troutt hailed the ruling, saying: "It set a precedent that the runway construction is not justified until the commission files the statement."

"It means the city has a lever to work on the WCRC for justice to its residents."

The $3.9 million, banned by the judge, would have been spent to pay bills for work already completed on building a 12,000-foot runway extending from Middle Belt and Wick roads to Eureka and Vining roads.

The money approved for use by the judge will be used to complete storm drainage work in the airport, to finance the construction of a fence around the airport and to complete the looping of Eureka Road south of the airport in the path of the proposed runway.

Troutt said a meeting will be set for school and city officials and citizens involved in the suit to press the offensive against the WCRC for return of damages to citizens in Romulus.

Troutt said the groups will be discussing a possible suit against the road commission for damages caused by "high noise" areas at the ends of runways.

The Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration refuse to approve mortgages for homes in the "high noise" areas of runways, making it difficult for the owners to sell, except at a reduced price.

Troutt believes that property owners within the flight path areas should be reimbursed for the loss of value on their homes.

The mayor said that officials from Taylor and Dearborn Heights and Huron Township may be asked if they wish to join in the suit, since homes in those communities also lie in the "high noise" areas.

A second possible suit could be pressed by the school, city and community officials to obtain a 25-year master plan for the airport.

Jerrold Fadem, the city's attorney in the original lawsuit against the airport, has successfully pressed for a similar plan from a San Francisco municipal airport.

Troutt said the plan, which would detail expansion for a 25-year period, could be used to encourage development in the city, since builders are reluctant to develop near the airport for fear their property would be confiscated in unannounced future expansion plans.

Graduation nears

Nearly 300 seniors from Romulus High School will be honored during commencement exercises next week.

The students will gather at 7 p.m. June 12 in the school's athletic field to mark a successful completion of four-years of studies and the start of a career.

Valedictorian for the exercises is Kathleen Matthews and the salutatorian is Adrian Bergsamy.

Romulus High School Principal Joel Carr said the exercises will be moved to the school's gymnasium if the weather is inclement.

"But we don't expect any problems," he added. "The weather always is nice on commencement day."

Finishing touches

Although most of his classmates have taken a holiday from school, Romulus High School senior Stephen Massingill still has school work to complete on his senior project. Massingill is one of more than 20 seniors in the Romulus High School building trades program who worked to build a home literally from the ground up near Tyler and Ozga roads in the city. The students' handiwork will be on display this weekend during an open house. Most seniors were allowed to leave school last Friday, but students in the building trades class have put in some extra time to put finishing touches on their handiwork. — Photo by The Romulus Roman Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

Students open 'special' home to visitations

The Romulus Board of Education will be holding its first house sale.

The board will be asking bids on a new home, valued at approximately $42,000, constructed as part of the Romulus High School Building Trades course.

Located on nearly one acre of land at 9650 Ozga Road near Tyler Road, the house has three bedrooms, two bathrooms, a family room behind a built in garage, a full basement, and a split field-stone fireplace.

Some 22 students in the building trades program did "a professional job" on the structure according to instructor Conrad Samonek, a licensed builder.

The Romulus schools will host an open house at the home this weekend for prospective buyers, and taxpayers interested in the program.

The structure will be opened between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. Friday, and between noon and 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Persons will be on hand at the open house to explain details of its construction.

Plans for the structure were drawn up by Home Planners of Detroit, a housing design firm.

The faculty and students involved in the project enlarged the original design by some 200 square feet to make a 1,460 square-foot structure and added the custom fireplace in the family room.

All woodwork will be stained and varnished and the home will be carpeted.

The structure is all brick. Bids on the structure will be asked following several appraisals of its worth by banks, independent appraisers and realtors.

Samonek said he expects the price to be set in the area of $42,000 including land and permit fees.

Bids will be taken at the school board office following the open house.

Any profit made on the project will be returned to the school district for the building trades program.

Samonek and his co-coordinator of the project, Terry Bird, hope to construct another home in the immediate area of the Ozga Road site.

Planners stay neutral on rezoning of course

Romulus residents protesting the rezoning of a golf course for use as a shopping center will have to wait another week to learn what the Romulus Planning Commission thinks of the concept.

Following a lengthy meeting May 28, the commission failed to take action on rezoning the golf course, located at Wayne and Wick roads, from a single family housing designation to a regional center designation.

The only vote taken during the meeting was an amendment to the approval of the motion the rezoning, contingent upon the presentation of leases from large commercial concerns to insure the shopping center will be built.

The amendment was to send the matter to the Romulus City Council for a determination on the rezoning without a recommendation from the planning body.

The amendment was defeated by one vote, and no vote was taken on the motion to approve the shopping center plan.

The planning commissioners indicated in a private caucus during the meeting that they would look favorably upon approving the regional center zoning, if the developers of the proposed shopping center showed the city leases from such concerns as K-Mart and Great

Scott supermarkets for store space.

The developers, the Markward-Karafilis construction firm, have proposed to rezone 15 acres of the Shady Hollow Golf Course near Wayne and Wick roads for a regional center use. In conjunction with the regional center, a partner of the developing firm, Mark Woodson of Marwood Co., will build a 25-unit low-cost senior citizen housing project on 10 acres of land.

Another 5-acre parcel involved in the rezoning would be zoned to a regional center designation, but would not be developed immediately, according to the developer.

Elected officials in the city have drawn up sides on the merits of the project with Mayor Terry L. Troutt indicating he will push for the rezoning, provided the developers guarantee they will build a shopping center on the land.

Councilman James C. Stewart is leading a contingent of elected officials, former elected officials and prospective developers in the city in a protest of the rezoning.

Stewart said rezoning the golf course from a single family home designation to commercial would be a contradiction of city policy, since Romulus spent $500,000 last year for recreation and then would rezone an important recreational facility for use as a shopping center.

Stewart indicated that nearly 80 percent of the land in Romulus is undeveloped and that much of it would be suitable for a shopping center development.

New law will expand VA voc rehab rolls

A recent law which extends vocational rehabilitation training to veterans with as little as 10 percent service-connected disability is expected to add as many as 12,000 to the rolls of this Veterans Administration (VA) program in fiscal year 1976.

Some 27,000 veterans, including Western Wayne

...law removed restrictions

County residents, trained in the program during fiscal year 1974, and a total of 800,000 have participated since World War II, VA reported.

Prior to enactment of the Dec. 3 law, persons rated less than 30 percent disabled could be enrolled in the vocational rehabilitation program only if they had what was found to be a "pronounced employment handicap."

The new law removed that restriction, however, allowing veterans with 10 and 20 percent disabilities in need of rehabilitation to receive up to four years of training - provided termination dates, generally nine years after discharge, have not passed.

They may train at colleges or universities, vocational or technical schools or in on-job or on-farm training programs. If necessary, training may be pursued in special rehabilitation facilities, or in their own homes.

The VA also noted that although tutorial assistance has been provided to vocational rehabilitation trainees in the past when needed, its availability was specified for the first time in the law.

The new law also increased the maximum grant to vocational rehabilitation trainees in the agency's work-study program from $250 to $625 per enrollment period, and the amount of time required to repay the grant from 100 to 250 hours. At the same time, the limit on the number of work-study trainees was removed.

Another law has increased subsistence allowances for vocational rehabilitation trainees to 22.7 percent from 18.2 percent.

Under current rates, single veterans training fulltime receive $209 monthly, with one dependent, $259, and with two dependents, $304 monthly. Trainees are paid an additional $22 monthly for each additional dependent, and the agency pays tuition, books and fees for trainees, in addition to compensation for their disabilities.

Disabled veterans interested in vocational rehabilitation training were urged to apply at the nearest VA office, or seek details at any veterans service organization office.

Seven candidates vie for one ed board seat

Seven persons, including the incumbent board secretary, are vying for a 4-year term on the Romulus Board of Education in the June 9 school elections.

The incumbent, Diane L. Boger, is being challenged by LaVerne McGee, Leonard Malinowski, Harry W. Nelson, Frank G. Schick, Gordon L. Silvey and Douglas Vaught for the 4-year term.

Mrs. Boger, 28, of 9469 Essex, has served on the board for the past four years. The Romulus housewife believes her past experience on the board provides qualifications to seek another term.

Mrs. Boger is a graduate of Romulus High School and attended Eastern Michigan University for two years. She has three children, two of whom attend Cory Elementary School.

The incumbent believes the major issue facing her following the board election would be the selection of a new superintendent of education to replace Robert McConeghy who resigned that post earlier in May.

Mrs. McGee, 33, of 35504 N. Alexander St., believes two previous attempts to win a board seat have given her "insight into the problems of the school" and qualify her for another shot at a board seat.

A homemaker, living in Romulus for 3½ years, Mrs. McGee has four children, three attending Beverly Elementary School and one attending Romulus Junior High School.

Mrs. McGee is a graduate of a Virginia high school, has attended the Detroit College of Business for a year and intends to enroll at Eastern Michigan University in the fall.

The candidate said she sees no major issues facing her if elected to the board other than "to continue the quality education now in the Romulus system." She said her regular attendance of school board meetings has shown her the necessity to pick a good successor to McConeghy.

Malinowski, 37, of 34624 Michele, is an 8-year resident of the city. Employed as an engineer at the Ford Motor Co., Malinowski recently completed studies for his law degree at the Detroit College of Law.

He has four children who attend St. Aloysius School and preschool programs in the city.

Malinowski believes his previous community work and his "continuing interest in education" inspired by his teacher wife qualify him for a board seat.

He believes the major issue facing the board would be insuring that the school administration maintains discipline over the students in the school system, since leniency in discipline results in poor classroom conduct and a drop in educational quality.

Nelson, 43, of 6405 Dexter, is a foreman at the Ford Motor Co. The 2-year resident believes his interest and experience in dealing with people during his time in service as an Air Force officer qualify him for a board seat.

Nelson is a graduate of an Arkansas high school and the University of Nebraska.

He has six children who attend St. Aloysius School.

The candidate believes the major concern of the Board of Education should be to maintain discipline in the schools, since he was forced to transfer his children to St. Aloysius School after overcrowding and discipline problems began to affect their education.

Schick, 38, of 34717 Michele, is an 8-year resident of the community who has children in Romulus South Junior High School and Hayti and Cory Elementary schools.

A mechanic for American Airlines in Romulus, Schick believes his interest in children, his work in the Romulus Little League and the Michigan High School Athletic Association and his concern for education qualify him for the board seat.

He is a graduate of a New Jersey high school and the Petersboro (Fla.) School Aeronautics.

Schick says his major concern on the board would be the lack of concern for students on the part of the school's counseling staff.

Silvey, 39, of 36831 Porter St., is a life-long resident of the city with children attending Romulus Elementary School and Romulus South Junior High School.

A graduate of Romulus High School and a sales route driver for the McDonald Ice Cream Co., Silvey believes his basic concern about the affairs of the school system and a belief that the Board of Education is taking over administration of the school system qualify him for a spot on the board.

Silvey said his major concern in the race is what he describes as the "racial problem at Romulus High School" and the possible move to a year-round school calendar.

Vaught, 18, of 36866 Ferndale, is a graduate of Romulus High School who has studied for one year at the Center for Creative Studies.

Vaught believes his study during his last year in high school at the Debate Institute of America on school financing and his insight into school operations as a recent graduate qualify him for a spot on the Board of Education.

The major issue Vaught would concern himself with is the poor treatment the public receives at the hands of the school board and the abuse of executive sessions by the board.

Residents of Romulus will be asked to select one of the candidates on the ballot for the lone seat on the Board of Education. The 4-year term will run from 1975 to June 1979.

Pancake meal opens community market

An "all you can eat" pancake breakfast, sponsored by the Romulus Kiwanis Club, will kick off what organizers hope will be another successful 17-week stint of the Romulus Community Mart Saturday.

The market will open at 9 a.m. and run until 3 p.m. Saturday with the Kiwanis sponsoring the first major event. Doug Vaught and Lisa Sayer will participate in a caricature drawing booth and artisans will give ceramics and macrame demonstrations, during the day-long event.

In addition the Romulus Elementary Honors Band will perform during the market opening.

Organizers of the event, Beverly McNally, chairman, and committee members Marilyn Radford, Irvin Icenogle, Donna Lee Zavitz and Janet Darnell are hoping the events of the first day will set the pace for ensuing weeks.

Centered around the sale of fresh produce, hand-made goods and minor antique items, the market is designed to draw persons from in and around the Romulus community into a community-wide event.

The organizers are planning on another caricature drawing display June 14 and a pet contest, rug hooking demonstration and a dog obedience demonstration June 21 to round out scheduled events this month.

The market also will run June 28, however no groups have scheduled events for that day.

The July 5 market also doesn't have any events scheduled, although a sales day will go on.

A kiddie moon walk, a chair caning demonstration, a pottery demonstration and a Bicentennial costume judging contest will mark the July 12 market day, while the Romulus Thrift Shop will hold a raffle July 19, and the Romulus Boy Scouts Order of the Arrow Indian Dancers will perform July 26.

August's events include performances by the Romulus Ecumenical Choir and the youth and elementary choirs on Aug. 2, a Hungarian day, leather weaving demonstration and candle dipping demonstration Aug. 9, a karate demonstration, senior citizens horse shoe pitch and a sing-a-long Aug. 16, and a dance program Aug. 23.

No events are scheduled Aug. 20 although sales will go on.

A square dance demonstration will mark Sept. 13, however no events other than regular sales are scheduled for Sept. 6, 20 or 27.

Icenogle said residents who have not been contacted to participate in the community market should contact market organizers if they are interested.

"Persons shouldn't be shy about coming forward, because we want them to participate," he said.

Persons interested in putting on demonstrations or selling wares can obtain information by calling the Romulus City Council office at 941-0666.

WONDERMENT — Students at Merriman Elementary School in Romulus took time out from their classes May 21 to see their peers perform as part of the school's Spring Festival. These younger students were watching their older counterparts put on a tumbling and acrobatic show during the festival. Other students demonstrated crafts and their expertise at either singing or playing an instrument during the day-long event. Following the demonstrations for students, the participants in the festival put on a special show at night for their parents. — The Romulus Roman photo.

Girl, 15, drowns in lake

A "fun" outing at a Washtenaw County lake ended in death for a 15-year-old Huron Township girl.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department spokesman report that Teri Bigham, 15, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bigham of 36869 Huron River Drive, Huron Township, died May 25 while swimming in approximately 15 feet of water in Independence Lake in northern Washtenaw County.

A Sheriff's Marine Patrol spokesman said Miss Bigham was swimming with two other friends from a floating raft about 100 feet from shore at the lake when she went below the water.

Friends attempted to find the girl after she went under the waves and then called the sheriff at 1:15 p.m.

A marine patrol diver found the body at 2:05 p.m. — approximately the same time the girl's parents arrived at the scene.

No attempt was made to revive her.

According to a sheriff's spokesman, the girl apparently went under the water due to exhaustion. There was no record of her eating prior to swimming to the raft. Miss Bigham was a ninth grade student at Huron High School.

Funeral services for Miss Bigham were held May 28 at the Baum Funeral Home. Interment was at Michigan Memorial Park in Huron Township.

Miss Bigham is survived by her parents; a brother, Allen Jr., a sister, Mrs. Dennis (Shirley) Domanski, and her grandparents on both her mother's and father's side of the family.

For his vote

You're responsible

By STAN OPOTOWSKY
Panax Special Columnist

Even as the helicopters were plucking the Americans and some Vietnamese from the embassy compound in Washington, Congress continued to debate whether this will be done.

It could be worse, of course. They still could be debating whether to demand independence from King George.

President Ford has urged that there be no recriminations over the tragedy in Vietnam. You can bet that any Congressman who sees a way to make political profit over the issue will heed his suggestion only as long as it takes to drive to the local television station.

But Congress has little room for criticism. During all those years the war was raging Congress could have stopped it at any time.

Congress controls the purse strings, and you can be certain that had the funds been shut off, then the war would have been shut off. No manufacturer would have stepped forward to donate free bombs or free bullets.

Now Washington is full of "I-told-you-so's" these days. You can search the town over and find just about no one who was in favor of the Vietnam War. Obviously the whole thing was run by a bunch of phantoms who faded into nothing a few weeks ago.

The truth of the matter is that the whole nation was responsible.

There were protestors, of course, but most of them disappeared with the draft, which indicates that they were not so much against the war per se as they were against the possibility that they might have to join it.

Thus the responsibility can be spread pretty broadly. It can be spread not only among those congressmen who condoned it passively if not actively, but it also can be spread among anyone who voted for such a congressman.

You may not want to own up to it, but the fact remains that in reality you are responsible for anything your congressman does. If you don't like what he's done, you are supposed to oust him.

This doesn't mean that Congress alone should share the blame for the debacle. It does mean, however, that few if any congressmen have the right to blame others.

There is a question of whether a congressman is obligated to follow the will of the people. Certainly he should not if he sincerely feels public opinion is wrong.

It takes courage and integrity to buck the tide, and the test of that often finds most wanting on Capitol Hill.

The issue of the Vietnamese refugees is an ideal example. You might argue whether they should have been plucked in panic from their homeland, but you can't argue that once we hang them we have no choice but to feed them.

The embittered unemployed of the nation object. It is a human reaction. But the congressman who had the decency and courage to oppose this emotional protest and vote instead the nation's conscience was the only congressman worthy of a seat in Washington.

As they see it

Election is important

To the editor: I am writing in regard to the upcoming school board election. I feel that this election is of greater importance to the community than those of the recent past.

The fact that seven people have filed petitions for one vacant school board seat indicates not only an increase of interest in the educational system of Romulus, but also a dissatisfaction with the present school board and its policies.

The large number of candidates for this position implies an attitudinal change in the minds of some of the public. There now are people who feel they can challenge the autonomous control of the schools which the present board of education consistently has practiced.

An example of this use of authority was the manner in which the school board dealt with the students, parents, and teachers who, last year, argued in favor of acceptance of 15 proposals which would have provided what they considered necessary changes in the present school system.

Pamela Payne
of Romulus

EDITOR'S NOTE: A part of Miss Payne's letter has not been published. In that part of the letter she was urging voters to choose a candidate that she backed. It is against newspaper editorial policy to carry letters of personal endorsement of individuals running for the Board of Education or for city, state or national governmental offices.

Parents, friends are appreciated

To the editor: Sometimes it is difficult to find all the necessary words to express appreciation. However, the Belleville Band Boosters certainly would like to take time to say a most gracious "Thank you" to all the parents and band friends who purchased our oranges and grapefruits during our first "Sunshine" sale.

We would especially like to give a big sunshine smile to Mr. Rizzo of Foodville Market in Belleville and Mr. Jim Sayre at the Red Barn for their kindness in supporting this endeavor.

A great deal of work, but it was a successful venture.

School production gains appreciation

To the editor: The final curtain is down and the tears flowed happily backstage. The state scenery has now been struck, the costumes are home and put away, the actors have returned to students, the orchestra pit is quiet and empty, "Molly Brown" has taken the last applause, teachers are back to a normal schedule, but the "memory lingers on."

To all the many people who put the show together, students, teachers and parents, we'd like to give you "one more hand" for another memorable musical at Belleville High School. You enrich our lives tremendously with your hard work. What a joy to know those students who can put it all together for us parents and friends. Take a long look kids, and remember it always.

Please accept our "thanks" for the delightful evenings spent watching the performances. We look forward to another year, another show.

On teacher strike bill

Keith alters position

Some of Bill Keith's constituents are confused about his position on the issue of teacher strikes.

State Rep. Keith, a Democrat from Garden City, is one of a handful of state lawmakers who have been working for a solution to the perennial problem of teacher strikes.

A former member of the Garden City school board, Keith headed a special legislative committee, appointed by House Speaker Bobby D. Crim, to draft a proposed law aimed at preventing the work stoppages by teachers which reached a zenith in Garden City and Dearborn Heights' Crestwood.

The reason for the confusion about Keith's position on how to resolve teacher strikes is difficult for the average person to understand.

It gets down to the basics of how to be successful in politics and more specifically, how to get bills passed. There are several viewpoints on how to be successful in making laws and Keith's probably is the most difficult to do and the most difficult to understand.

Some background is necessary. Keith's committee, composed of an equal number of former teachers and former school board members, developed a legislative proposal which was geared towards reducing impasses in teacher-school board contract negotiations.

Keith and his committee got behind their proposal, taking it to various educational groups around the state, explaining it, and trying to garner support for it in grass roots of Michigan.

A short time later, criticism of the Keith bill became "hot and heavy."

The teacher unions hated it and school boards were cool to it. With opposition coming from both sides, the Legislature did nothing. There was a standoff with the labor committees in the House and the Senate refusing to report out Keith's bill or any other bill which would deal with teacher strikes.

What to do next? That was the question Keith and the House and Senate Democratic leadership had to wrestle with.

House Speaker Crim told the two sides — teachers and school board representatives — to lock themselves into a motel room and not come out until they have a teacher strike proposal of their own.

After much gnashing of teeth, the two sides presented their own proposal to Crim, saying it was a concept which both sides could live with.

This is where the heavy decision-making on the part of Keith enters the picture.

In its demands

Jackson urges support of Black Africa

By TOM OCHILTREE
Panax Washington Correspondent

Like a man sprinkling gasoline on a fire, Sen. Henry M. Jackson publicly has urged the United States to throw its full weight without question behind all of the demands Black Africa is making on the Republic of South Africa and Rhodesia.

In a speech in New York Wednesday night, Jackson defined the whole African problem in such simplistic terms as to insult the intelligence of white and black residents alike of that troubled continent.

This hardly would matter if Jackson had sounded off simply as a Democratic senator from Washington State.

But he represents something more than that. At the moment he is regarded as the front runner for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976.

Jackson's motives for striking this strident pro Black Africa stance only can be guessed at, but on the basis of his recent record the senator was giving yet another demonstration of his attempt to curry favor, like an old fashioned patent medicine salesman, with every racial and ethnic minority in the United States.

Because he was a hawk on Vietnam for so long, Jackson obviously is making a desperate effort to reestablish himself as a bonafide member of the liberal wing of the Democratic Party.

Jackson must have felt his speech was well tailored for a dinner sponsored by the Pan African Business Center. All the same it was too bad Jackson did not use this New York occasion to stress the need for white-black detente in Southern Africa and to urge compromise and careful negotiation rather than a resort to guerrilla warfare.

Fewer people all the time are prepared to defend the traditionally stringent racial policies of the Republic of South Africa and the wide measure of indifference Rhodesia has showed black in the past.

But the prime ministers of the two countries, John Vorster and Ian Smith, respectively are moving to open channels of communication with their black African neighbors. They also have offered some internal reforms. These may not be broad enough, but they at least point out a hopeful path.

Regardless of the cocktail party cant of some extreme liberals in the United States and Britain, there are tribal blacks in South Africa and Rhodesia living in the context of a completely different century and civilization from their white neighbors. It is nonsense to pretend that they would be ready any time soon for the "one man one vote" concept of the Western industrial nations.

Almost without exception former black colonies upon being given their independence have corrupted democratic institutions and reverted to dictatorships, some of a particularly harsh and brutal kind. If Sen. Jackson does not know this he should take a little time off to study the situation on the ground. Ignorance is no excuse for a man in his position.

Jackson did make one point with which many people can agree. Stressing the importance to the world of the emerging African Continent Jackson said Washington does not seem to get this message. He said: "No area of the world has been assigned a lower priority by the U.S. government in recent years than has Africa."

This seems to have been true particularly of the Ford administration. The President and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger have appeared too busy to give much public notice to African problems.

In recent months white South African leaders have tried to revive the old warm feeling of friendship between Pretoria and Washington, but it has been pretty much all up hill work for them.

Jackson was especially critical of the Ford administration's decision in April to ship weapons grade uranium to the Republic of South Africa. He declared: "This was a foolhardy move by the United States, one which can only threaten peace on the African continent."

In another part of his speech, the senator said African nations and the United States together must seek "to avoid great power rivalry or conflict on the African Continent."

That vague pious statement sounds reasonable enough on first reading. But how does Jackson visualize keeping the African Continent from becoming a theater of war if the most powerful country — the Republic of South Africa — is badgered and isolated while agents of the Soviet Union and Communist China work tirelessly to try to subvert the Black African states further north?

In another example of upside down logic, Jackson said: "American policy must be to deplore intervention by any great power, directly or indirectly, in their (African Nations') internal political development."

Fair enough. But in another passage he insisted "the United States cannot be neutral in a struggle for racial justice and political liberty."

In this fuzzy way he seems to mean it is out of bounds for the United States or any other major power to intervene in Black Africa but Washington should ride herd on Pretoria.

What happens if this badly strains American-South African relations and damages the strategic and commercial interests South Africa represents for the United States? He doesn't say.

'The United States cannot be neutral in a struggle for racial justice...'

Seminar to help teacher in piano instruction

A 2-week seminar on the art of piano teaching will begin June 16 at the University of Michigan School of Music for both experienced and beginning piano teachers in Western Wayne County.

Intended to promote early training in musicianship and to improve the competence of music teachers, the program is sponsored jointly by the Mu Phi Epsilon and Sigma Alpha Iota music sororities. The series of six lectures and five demonstration classes with beginning children will be conducted by Dr. Edna Kilgore.

Enrollment may be by letter to Piano Seminar, P.O. Box 1267, Ann Arbor 48106, and after Tuesday by calling 665-9567.

The lectures will stress the teacher's responsibilities, objectives, and the essentials of musicianship, and will guide the teacher in the building of individual teaching methods. Other aspects of piano pedagogy to be studied include judging the merits of published methods, forming a student's program, selecting music, teaching the student how to practice, introducing literature to the student, reviewing basic piano techniques and analyzing piano literature with the advanced student.

COUNTING CASES — Belleville Kiwanis Club members Dave Larabell (left) and Fred Hudson count cases of popcorn the club has volunteered to sell as part of the fund-raising program to finance a learning disabilities program sponsored by Kiwanis international. Bill Chizmar and Larabell are co-chairmen of the popcorn sale, which will run for four weeks. Kiwanians will be on the streets soliciting sales of the popcorn.

County offers plots for seniors to garden

Western Wayne County senior citizens who want to "stretch their pension dollars" now have the opportunity of doing so by growing their own vegetables in garden plots provided by Wayne County in Westland.

The 50-square-foot plots of already-plowed land are located south of Michigan Avenue across from Wayne County General Hospital between Middlebelt and Merriman roads.

The land is county-owned and is being provided free of charge to senior citizens.

"The program was such a success in its first season last year that we have had two acres with a total of 50 garden plots prepared, and have another two acres available if needed," said Roscoe L. Bobo, chairman of the county's Board of Commissioners.

There were 25 garden plots last year, he said.

The program originally was conceived by Westland Commissioner Tom F. Taylor and now is coorminated by the Wayne County Office on Aging.

The only expense for the program was the cost of having the plowing done by tractor, Bobo said. Two senior citizen volunteers — Walter Massey, 68, of Westland, and John Woodcock, 69, of Wayne — devoted several days to staking out the garden plots.

Persons interested in participating in the gardening program may contact the Office on Aging, 224-0950.

ceptional ones' — the physically and mentally handicapped children and adults," said Cathey.

Entry can be inviting with a dash of wood

An attractive front entry is as important to one's home as the proper makeup is to Milady as she sallies forth on a dinner date. Perhaps more so.

Too many houses have been designed solely for the shelter they must provide. And this is happening again today, as builders simplify plans and reduce space in their efforts to hold down costs.

But a distinctive, inviting entry is not all that costly, either as a revision to a home in the planning stage or as a face-lifting for an existing house.

Home & Garden

Lumber can be the chief ingredient, and western red cedar is a preferred species because of its durability outdoors, its beauty with or without a finish and its wide availability.

Often a startling sprucing up of a drab entry can be wrought simply by laying a cedar deck or partial walkway and placing one or two screens to guide visitors to the door.

As an added option, new siding can be applied around the door, or to that section of house wall.

A door yard that's just like hundreds of others in the neighborhood can be transformed by enclosing it behind a wood grill fence and twin gates, out toward the public walk or property line.

This courtyard filled with flowers and shrubs becomes a delightful "decompression chamber" as guests await your response to the doorbell. A vine-covered arbor near the door will keep the eye away from the house exterior, if that is desired.

Where the entry is a few feet above or below street level, wood steps easily make the transition. A railing might be advisable, and if so consider building in a garden bench on the wider side.

Even a simple canopy over an entry can benefit from thoughtful design, and if both siding and entry cover are of cedar, so much the better.

In one house an architect designed for himself, the front door is near the inside angle of an L-shaped edifice. He placed a triangular canopy in that angle, like a web between a duck's toes.

Horizontal six-inch cedar siding, a wood deck underfoot, its 2-by-4s at right angles to the front walk, and a railing along the open side of the deck all lead the eye toward the entrance from every angle.

GRAND ENTRANCE — Creating a courtyard can transform a tired front entry at a fraction of cost of remodeling house itself. Open-style fence, twin gates, decking with steps toward door and rigid canopy — all of western red cedar — frame this quiet entry-garden.

Cedar: Rustic trim

Surrounded by the forms and colors of nature in plantings and the sky, outdoor living areas are best expressed in the natural tones and textures of wood.

One of the most durable and a highly favored wood for outdoor use is western red cedar, adding its warm grain patterns and color to siding, fences, railing and decks.

Owners of a home with an ocean view specified a weathered wood appearance for its exterior, and especially for the outdoor dining terrace with overlooking balcony.

A pleasant, protected area was achieved with vertical wall siding of tight-knotted channel rustic cedar, and by repeating this pattern on the fence enclosing the terrace.

The balcony off the second floor den offers a sweeping view, and is surrounded by an open railing of 2-inch western cedar. Steps lead down to the terrace.

Another family gained outdoor living and relaxing room with sun-splashed decks running the length of the house at two levels.

The decks are of spaced 2-by-4-inch western cedar laid flat. Sawtextured 1-by-4-inch cedar siding combines with a board railing to lend a warm tone to the decked areas.

The railings are built with 4-by-4 posts and a cap rail of 4-by-4s. Two 1-by-10-inch cedar boards, with spacing at top, center and bottom, make the railing a good wind break while allowing some ventilation.

Selected knotty red cedar is a good choice for siding and fencing, as its tight knots offer a natural look.

Fifth and sixth grade students of Beverly Elementary School in Romulus are settling back in the groove of classroom work following their return from a campout at the Detroit Baptist Camp in Lapeer, Mich.

The annual trip to the state's out of doors, suspended last year because of the nation's energy crisis, is part of the school's outdoor education program.

Handling the chores of campers were Robert Parr, sixth grade teacher and camp director; Peter Silveri, helping teacher;

Cal Anderson, sixth grade teacher; Pearl Blackmon, playground aide; Elaine Paige, Vernita Clark and John Wilson.

A spokesman for the school said the youngsters were involved in many meaningful activities and studies while at the camp.

In the big towns

Southwest Michigan: Standout attractions

Sightseers will find more standout attractions in southwestern Michigan's big towns than probably anywhere else in the state, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Highlights of the 198-mile circular "Big Town Tour" can include the State Capitol in Lansing, Michigan State University and its agricultural research barns in nearby East Lansing, Marshall's 19th century homes, the Kellogg Co. in Battle Creek, one of the state's finest nature centers at Kalamazoo and intriguing museums and a paddleboat ride in Grand Rapids.

Visitors can see the outstanding attractions in the Lansing-East Lansing area without spending a dime in admission fees.

In Lansing, the 96-year-old State Capitol can be seen seven days a week except on holidays. Guided tours are available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekends. More than 100 species of animals can be viewed in Lansing's Potter Park Zoo daily. Interesting and informative exhibits also can be seen every day at the Michigan Historical Museum.

Michigan State University (MSU) in East Lansing offers a variety of attractions. For a look at rural life, visitors can tour its agricultural research barns where farm animals are raised for experimental purposes. Barns are open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

A walk on MSU's campus should include a stop at the Beal-Garfield Botanic Gardens where more than 5,000 types of flowers and shrubs grow. Visitors also can tour the computer laboratory, historical museum and television studio, while a 47-bell carillon concert at Beaumont Tower can be heard at 4 p.m. Sundays.

The hometown of the original Win Schuler's Restaurant, Marshall is also noted for its 19th century architecture. Chief among Marshall's fine old homes is the Honolulu House, now a museum full of historical artifacts. Closed Mondays, the house is open on afternoons only.

In Battle Creek, the world's cereal capital, the Kellogg Co.'s plant can be toured without charge from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, while the Post Cereals Division of the General Food Corp. has an art gallery which can be toured for free from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on weekdays. The gallery is housed at the Postum Club House.

Two other Battle Creek attractions emphasize the outdoors. The Leila Arboretum, a 205-acre tract of rare plantings, contains the Kingman Memorial Museum of Natural History. Located 13 miles northwest of town, the Kellogg Bird Sanctuary features a museum devoted to bird life. Open daily, both attractions require a small admission fee.

Kalamazoo's big attraction — the Kalamazoo Nature Center — actually is located about five miles north of town. Its focal point, the Interpretive Center, includes a geodesic dome housing tropical plants, representing species once found in prehistoric Michigan. Nearby is a small "barnyard" full of animals to pet.

The Nature Center also offers visitors 300 acres of meadows and woodlands. In the summer, the preserve is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Grand Rapids, Michigan's second largest city, has two small but outstanding museums. The Grand Rapids Public Museum, which records the city's fame as a furniture manufacturing center, has a "Gaslight Village" section showing how city streets looked in the 1890s. The museum is open daily at no charge. An adjoining planetarium presents programs on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays for a small fee.

The Grand Rapids Art Museum houses a permanent collection of notable prints and German Expressionist paintings. Free to the public, this museum also is open daily.

This summer Grand Rapids visitors can take paddleboat rides through town on the Grand River. Now through Sept. 1, cruises will be offered every day except Monday. The rides feature a commentary of the area's river history.

Other Grand Rapids attractions include the John Ball Park Zoo, the second largest in the state, and Alexander Calder's modernistic sculpture "La Grande Vitesse," a monumental landmark in the downtown area.

$1 MILLION CHECK — Wayne County officials elatedly display a State of Michigan check for $1.3 million, representing a grant from the Legislature to help fund Common Pleas Court. Roscoe L. Bobo (seated), chairman of the county Board of Commissioners, hails the grant as "the first step" toward full state assumption of the full $33 million annual cost of courts in the county budget. Standing (from left) are Presiding Common Pleas Court Judge Ricardo Lubinski and county auditors John Gourlay, Leonard Proctor and Richard T. Kelly.

'First step forward'

Funds finance court work

The chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Roscoe L. Bobo, has hailed a $1.3 million grant from the State Legislature as "the first step toward State financing of the courts in Wayne County."

The grant will help finance the $3.5 million annual budget of Common Pleas Court, one of five courts financed in whole or part by the county. Court operations will cost the county taxpayers $33 million this year.

Bobo praised the fact that the Legislature rejected a move by some out-state legislators to reduce the grant to $650,000.

"Approval of the full amount shows a strong commitment on the part of the Legislature, a commitment to the people of Michigan's largest county and to the concept of a single court system with equal justice for all," he said.

Bobo expressed gratitude to the state legislators from Wayne County for their work on behalf of the grant. He noted that State Rep. Richard A. Young (D-Dearborn Heights) introduced the proposal for the grant to the county, and that Rep. William A. Ryan (D-Detroit) also played a key role.

Bobo commended the Common Pleas Court bench, the County Board of Auditors and members of the County Board of Commissioners who worked to secure the grant.

Other courts funded by the County include Circuit Court, Detroit Recorder's Court, Probate Court and Juvenile Court, a division of Probate Court.

"This grant was approved as an interim measure, pending full state assumption of the costs of the courts in line with the 1963 Constitution which established the concept of a single state-wide court system," Bobo said.

"District courts in the suburbs receive partial state financing and the majority in the Legislature agreed it is only fair that some state funding for Common Pleas Court be provided because Common Pleas functions much like a district court for the City of Detroit."

Center to host festival

The first annual Arts and Crafts Festival will be held Friday through Sunday in Plymouth at the Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street. Admission is free.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Items for sale will range from hand-crafted furniture, jewelry, antique books, to glasscraft, water colors, ceramics and a variety of over 40 displays by dealers and exhibitors.

For everyone

June in Michigan always means fun

What's your pleasure? A little old world charm, lilacs in blossom, a splash of aquatic action or perhaps some high-in-the-sky sport? June in Michigan has it all and plenty more besides, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

The charms of Europe, for example, are as close as the ethnic festival site on the riverfront in downtown Detroit. This month visitors will savor Slovak food favorites such as pagas and klobasa and enjoy "old country" Slovakian music and crafts Friday through Sunday. Come June 13-15, polkas, pretzels and beer will be among the dominant features of the German festivities. Then on June 20-22 the air will fill with the rhythm of the tarantella and the spicy flavors of Italy. Our own "yankee-doodle" heritage takes over June 27-29 to end the June schedule with a red, white and blue American Festival.

Frankenmuth folk extend an enthusiastic "Willkommen" and promise you one of the "wurst" times of your life, June 8-14. "Wurst" as in bratwurst dipped in a sauce, knackwurst and metwurst served with fresh baked home-made bread and stines of beer. Add parades, polka bands, lederhosens and dirndls and you have Michigan's popular Bavarian Festival.

Other ethnic oriented events on the June calendar are the International Fair and Festival, June 26-29, at the Yack Recreation Center in Wyandotte and the French Market, June 28-29, on the Kern Block in downtown Detroit.

It's fairly common knowledge that Michigan leads the nation in red tart cherries and pea bean production, but not so well known that the state ranks a strong third nationally in the production of asparagus.

The residents of the cities of Hart and Shelby particularly are proud of that status since 40 percent of the tender green spears are grown in Oceana County. The result is the National Asparagus Festival — June 13-15 — at Hart and Shelby. Festivities will include a women's 9-hole golf tournament, bicycle race, old fashioned square dance party, country carnival, a big parade and plenty of asparagus.

A visit to Michigan's Mackinac Island is a unique experience anytime, but at Lilac Time — June 14-15 — it's a special treat. Lilac Time activities include the crowning of the queen, queen's ball, street dancing and the Lilac Day parade with horse drawn floats.

If you're one of the "I love a parade" group, treat yourself to the Nations Largest Flag Day Parade, June 15, at Three Oaks. More than 100 units of bands, floats, Michigan and Indiana queens, celebrities, antique cars, military units will begin their precision promenade at 3 p.m. Climaxing the affair will be an air show by the War Birds of America.

Just good old fashioned fun would be an appropriate description of the Red Cedar Jubilee, June 18-22 at Williamston. All kinds of things are scheduled to chase your cares away including, a banjo and fiddlers contest, canoe races, tractor pull and a steak and beer tent for the satisfaction of hunger and thirst.

More jolly good times for one and all are set for June 20-22 at the Bay Country Festival, Bay City. The center of activity will be Veteran's Memorial Park and some of those activities will be canoe, boat and sailing races, tennis tournament, a carnival, historical presentations and other participation and spectator events.

A couple of annual favorites occur this month at Greenfield Village, Dearborn. First is the Muzzle Loaders Festival, June 21-22 complete with marching bands, costumes, demonstrations and displays recalling America's Civil War and frontier days and sharpshooters with muzzle-loading weapons. Next comes the Old-Time Summer Festival, June 28-Aug. 31. This summer-long festival features strolling minstrels, medicine shows, re-enactment of the Lincoln-Douglas debates and presentations by the Greenfield Village Players, plus numerous other diversions for all ages. Young and young at heart will find delight at "The Circus," a special exhibition of the Henry Ford Museum June 28-Sept. 14. This special event recalls the days when the circus was the spectacular of the year for many towns across America. The song asks, "if birds fly over the rainbow, why then oh why can't I" and participants in the National Soaring and Hang Gliding Festival, June 28-July 6, will be trying their wings to see if maybe they can. The festival will be held at Frankfort, known as the soaring capital of the United States in the 1930s and now the home of the Soaring Hall of Fame and Museum. The good times of Michigan are waiting for you to join in and your best guide to them all in the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events. Write for your free copy to the Michigan Tourist Council, 300 South Capitol Avenue, Lansing 48913.

State bar to honor media

Michigan's newspaper, magazine, film and broadcast personnel are eligible to have a $1,000 scholarship awarded in their name to a deserving Michigan student if they win one of the two top honors in the Second Annual Advancement-of-Justice Awards competition which closes July 1, 1975. The State Bar of Michigan will honor media people whose published or broadcast work has made outstanding contributions to the advancement of justice in the state during 1974.

In addition to a scholarship presented in his or her name, the recipient of each of the top awards will receive an engraved 5-inch bronze medal bearing an artist's depiction of the concept of justice. The publication, station or other medium in which the work appeared will receive a similar medal. Second and third place medals also will be presented in each category.

"The Bar's objective is to honor some of those members of the news media who advanced the cause of justice in this state through their reporting and writing efforts," said Stephen C. Bransdorfer, president of the State Bar of Michigan.

Any person is eligible to enter material published or broadcast in Michigan.

Judges are Chairman Hon. Wade H. McCree Jr., U.S. Court of Appeals judge; Attorney John B. Kiefer; Kenneth H. McDonald, president of the Michigan Association of Broadcasters; John Murray, professor in the School of Journalism, Michigan State University; and Philip L. Richards, president of the Michigan Press Association.

The awards will be presented in September in Detroit at the annual meeting of the State Bar of Michigan. Entry forms may be obtained by writing or calling Philip Spelman, Director of Communications, State Bar of Michigan, 306 Townsend St., Lansing, 48933, or by calling (517) 372-9030.

BICENTENNIAL PRESENTATION — Boy Scouts of Troop 231 of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Belleville, have given Van Buren Township a Bicentennial flag to mark the nation's 200th anniversary of independence. Presenting the flag in behalf of the Boy Scouts were Scoutmaster Lee Hallert (left) and scouts Mike Chen and Jeff Clark.

Receiving it for the township were supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer and Van Buren Township Clerk Patricia Cullin. The presentation was a kick-off to a troop fund-raising drive. Persons hoping to purchase Bicentennial banners can do so by calling either 697-7048 or 461-1632.

RESOLUTION NO. 75-449

WHEREAS: Such a revision by the Public Service Commission would impose upon the citizens of the City of Romulus an unattainable expenditure requirement; and

WHEREAS: The present economy has adversely affected every industry, municipality, and citizen in the State of Michigan; and

By selling the options as a group, experts say, the manufacturer cuts assembly-line cost and passes on significant savings to the customer. Such packages should be evaluated carefully. Each option within a package usually can be purchased separately. But if you want most of the added options in the group, you can order all of them for only a little more money than you were already prepared to pay.

After track meet

Belleville gathers gold

Despite finishing fifth at the third annual Suburban 8 Conference Track & Field Championships, Belleville emerged from the league competition with a couple of gold medalists.

Eugene Poitevint, a senior, who finished fourth over the weekend at the Class A finals in the long jump, leaped 21 feet, 2½ inches to capture the league title in his specialty.

Belleville's 440-yard relay team made up of Ivan Kindell, Victor Busby, Joe Edward Abraham and Jim Humphreys proved it was the best in the league when it was clocked in the winning time of 44.8.

Coach Bruce Romant, who was pleased with his team's over-all performance, felt the team could have moved up a notch in the standings.

Belleville finished fifth, two points shy of fourth. Trenton occupied the fourth place with 43 points.

Dearborn amassed 84 points to capture the team championship. Trailing close behind was Edsel Ford with 75, while the host, Redford Union, finished third (68).

"We got our share of the limelight," Romant said. "But I feel we could have, with just a little more effort, finished one place above where we did."

Sports

"But, I guess one is never satisfied. We have a good crop of sophomores on this team and we're not going to be devastated by graduation as most of the schools, so I'm really looking forward to next year."

Leagues down to business

Howard's 'buries' American

The two Romulus Parks and Recreation Department Softball Leagues got down to business last week and the batters were ahead of the pitchers.

Howard's Dairy Bar displayed a balanced hitting attack as it buried American Hospital 17-2 in their first encounter of the Class A season.

Led by Vic Jaszcz who drilled three hits in four appearances at the plate and Hal Dubinsky who had a perfect 2-for-2 day, Howard's showed that it has the league title on its mind.

John Wolscheid also belted two hits in three trips, while Mark Jerome rapped two for four for the winners.

Keith McArthur who was the winning pitcher had little trouble in his first outing of the season.

John Reed sacked two hits in two appearances at the plate, while Jim Reed went two for three as Howard's picked up a close 7-6 victory over Crova.

Here are this week's Class A scores: Huron Valley Steel 10, Seven-Eleven 0; Morris Levine 13, Crova 6; Howard's Dairy Bar 17, American Hospital 2; Romulus Welding 7, Baum's Funeral Home 6; Howard's Dairy Bar 7, Crova 6; Huron Valley Steel 15, American Hospital 4; Morris Levine 20, Romulus Welding 14 and Baum's Funeral Home 25, Seven-Eleven 6.

In Class B, the scores are as follows: Romulus Jaycees 21, McCullen 8; Bean Pot 14, Difco 13; Beck-Howell 13, Walter's Bar 10; Beer Coolers 5, Romulus City Drugs 1; Difco 14, Walter's Bar 5 and Beck-Howell 12, McMullen Tool 4.

Bruce Root '1-man team'

Bruce Root proved to be a "one man team" as the Belleville Babe Ruth hurler got the Senior Cobras off to a winning start last week, beating Ypsilanti's Boys Club, 8-6.

Root whiffed 18 and walked two in posting an opening day victory in the Church of God League. He also starred at the plate, connecting for a double and single.

Setting records

South splits track meets

It was an up-and-down week for South Track Coach Dave Medley as he saw his team split two meets, taking Best Junior High 82½-46½, but losing to Belleville North 68-64.

Running at Best, the South tracksters took nine first place finishes and set three school records.

The eighth grade 880-yard relay team of Brian DeRousse, Brian Brinkerhoff, Cecil Koger and Brad McLean took first with a record time of 1:43.3.

Freshman Mike Koski set a ninth grade record in the 440-yard run, going 54.4, while Brinkerhoff set a new eighth grade mark at 57.4 in the same event.

Other outstanding times included Terry Turrentine's 10.9 in the 100-yard dash and the winning 440-yard relay team of Steve Darty, Cecil Koger, Tony Harris and Dexter Hubbard at 48.9.

Some of that winning magic must have worn off as the Tigers battled back at North from a 26-10 deficit after the field events to take a 1-point lead only to falter in the last event and fall to the Vikings, 68-64.

Koski lowered the mark he had set earlier in the week by winning the 440-yard run in 53.3. Bob Cook and Scott Straight teamed up to go 1-2 in the 100-yard low hurdles at 12.5 and 13.9, respectively.

Starring for North was Kevin Patterson, nosing out Terry Turrentine in the 100-yard dash at 10.8 and then Koski in the 220-yard dash at 24.6.

The mile relay of Chris Koger, Randy Elgas, Brian DeRousse and Randy

Jimenez set a school record at 3:53.0 and, in doing so, lifted South to a slim 64-63 lead going into the last event.

In the closest race of the day, the South and North 440-yard relays ran identical times of 49.5. It took a judges' decision to award North first place and the five points needed to win the meet.

"We didn't do as well as we could, but I'm proud we did come back and took them right down to the wire," Medley said. "We could've done better, but North turned in some good times also."

Presently the South track record stands at seven wins and one loss.

Village Sound 'together'

It took three weeks, but Village Sound's softball team appears to be putting things together.

Despite a disappointing 16-7 loss to the Cookies Harley David's, the Villagers bounced back to score a come from behind 5-4 victory over the Phillips & sons contingent.

Spotting Phillips's a 1-

run lead in the third inning, the Village Sound responded with four of its own runs in the fifth.

Leadoff batter Rick Reffitt belted a single and Mike Golden also drilled a base hit to put two men aboard, then a pinch-hit single by catcher Matt Byrnes scored the Villagers first run.

Then, Steve Billings laced a 2-run single to right, allowing both Golden and Byrnes to score. Billings tallied on a double in the hole by Charlie Coppock to end the scoring for that inning.

After a late 3-run rally by Phillips, the Villagers came back to notch one more run on singles by shortstop Reffitt and Coach David Billings.

Leading the Village Sound attack was Reffitt who had a perfect three for three at the plate, scoring two runs and also driving home two runs.

Championship needs funds

The National AAU Senior National Synchronized Championships are in jeopardy if the Michigan Synchronized Coaches Association, sponsors of the meet, can't come up with the needed funds.

"It will take more than 200 workers and thousands of dollars to host the national championship," said Shirley Burlingame, Garden City coach and meet manager. "And we're asking fans to donate money to help us stage the competition."

"The parents of the synchronized swimmers and the swimmers themselves have and are working hard to raise the funds, but we need more help."

The nationals will be held Aug. 1-7 at the Men's Intramural Building, Michigan State University.

More than 500 participants from the United States and guests from foreign countries will be on hand for the meet. Garden City, one of the largest synchronized swimming clubs in the state, will provide the workers.

If persons are interested and want to donate, they should write checks payable to the Michigan Synchronized Coaches Association and mail them to Mrs. Burlingame, meet manager, 33647 Kathryn St., Garden City 48135.

Further information about the meet may be obtained by calling Mrs. Burlingame at 522-2497.

Players change name

The Belleville Community Players no longer exists. The organization dedicated to quality dramatic performances on an amateur basis, has changed its name to "The Players."

While the name has been changed, the organization is working on its June production of "Plaza Suite."

Written by Neil Simon, "Plaza Suite" is a 3-act play containing three separate stories within the same suite of the Plaza Hotel.

The various situations involved in each of the separate playlets makes one large comedy.

Act one stars Bob Burris and co-stars Maxie Jo Haase. Burris also is the director.

CUFA offers transportation

Communities United For Action is operating a free transportation service for the low-income residents of Ecorse, Highland Park, Inkster, River Rouge, Romulus, Sumpter Township, and Taylor.

Radios recently have been installed in three vans and four sedans operated by CUFA drivers. The dispatch unit is located in CUFA's central office in Taylor and the dispatcher may be contacted by calling 292-2527.

"CUFA made an average of 1,200 transportation trips per month prior to the installation of the radio facilities. With the radios and dispatch unit in operation now, the potential for broadened service is much greater," said Randy Harmon, transportation coordinator. "Until now our only means of communication with the vehicle drivers was by telephone. The radios enable us to have instant and constant communication."

When the dispatcher receives a call for service, he sends a driver to pick up individuals at their homes and transport them to doctors, dentists, clinics, hospitals, courts, food co-ops, the Department of Social Services, and other necessary appointments anywhere in Wayne County.

Special transportation arrangements also can be made for visits to the Ann Arbor Burn Center and the University of Michigan Hospital. Annual incomes of people who use the service must be below the guidelines established by the federal government.

Regular service hours are between 9 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Arrangements for transportation needs before 9 a.m. and after 5:30 p.m. must be made one week in advance. Regular service requires 24 hours advance notice of appointment time.

The service is available to ease the burden of lack of transportation for the poor.

'Sunshine Flagpole' dedicated as historical Romulus monument

As part of Romulus' Bicentennial activities the Sunshine Flagpole, located at Goddard and Shook roads in Romulus, was dedicated as an historical monument during recent ceremonies conducted at the site.

Chairman of the Romulus Bicentennial Commission, Jack Trumble, said plans call for moving the flagpole from its present location to the City Civic Center at Goddard and Wayne roads in Romulus. The veterans monument in recent years has been maintained by Manufacturers National Bank and until it is moved, a spotlight from the bank will shine on the flag so that it may fly 24 hours a day. The flagpole originally was erected by the Romulus Sunshine Club, a woman's organization, in commemoration of World War I veterans. Two representatives of the club, Leona Buckberry and Rena Newsom, were on hand to receive the appreciation of the community from Mayor Terry Troutt.

At the ceremony, a flag presented by Congressman

William D. Ford (D-15th District) that had been flown over the capitol in Washington, D.C., was raised.

Among others attending the dedication were Adelia Wilson, representative of the Romulus Senior Citizens Club; Diane Hazen, Romulus librarian; Vira Petraska, assistant manager of Manufacturers National Bank; Donna Lee Zavitz, a member of the Bicentennial Committee, and Mayor Pro Tem Beverly McAnally.

BICENTENNIAL MEMORIAL — As part of Romulus' Bicentennial activities, Mayor Terry Troutt thanks the ladies of the Sunshine Club of Romulus for their significant contribution to the development of the community. Two representatives of the club, Leona Buckberry and Rena Newsom, are at the right with the mayor. Also pictured during the dedication of the Sunshine flag pole at Goddard and Shook roads are (from left) Jack Trumble, chairman of the Bicentennial committee; Adelia Wilson, Senior Citizen Club Bicentennial representative; Diane Hazen, Romulus librarian; Vira Petraska, assistant manager of Manufacturers National Bank; Donna Lee Zavitz, a member of the Bicentennial committee, and Mayor Pro Tem Beverly McAnally.

Mass, reception mark Ostrowski's 50th year

Belleville area residents for all their 50 years of marriage, Mr. and Mrs.

Albert Ostrowski recently marked their golden wedding day with a Mass of thanksgiving and a reception.

The couple renewed their wedding vows May 24 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church with The Rev. Raymond Skonec presiding. Liturgical music was provided by Mike Ives at the organ; the couple's grandsons, Stanley and Eddie Bialach on the trumpet and drums, and Virginia Dombrowski, the soloist. Two more grandsons, Mike Ostrowski and Mark Ostrowski, were altar boy and narrator, respectively.

At the offertory, the golden jubilarians walked to the sanctuary with their oldest grandchild attending, Mary Jo Wilson of Lake Tahoe, Calif., who carried the family flower, lilies of the valley, to the altar. Special Mass booklets for the occasion were prepared by the Ostrowski's oldest child, Marcella Bialach. The couple's only living attendant, Johanna (Jenny) Prystup of Warren, was unable to be present due to illness.

The reception, given by the couple's children, was held at the Romulus Progressive Club with some 300 guests attending from California, Florida, Flint, Saginaw and neighboring cities. For the special occasion the couple was chauffeured in a red, black and gold 1910 Ford by Joe Papuzynski of Belleville.

The wedding cake, which was served following the buffet dinner, was made by the Sanders Company of downtown Detroit where Mrs. Ostrowski was employed prior to her marriage. The ornament from the original cake added a nostalgic touch to the evening.

Highlighting the party was an original skit, "The Long Lost Cousin from Poland," presented by Frank Tabacynski who was comically costumed for his act. Music for dancing was by a band which included two of the Ostrowski grandchildren, Stan and Eddie Bialach.

Mrs. Ostrowski, who was presented with a corsage of yellow roses, chose to wear an A-line champagne gown trimmed in gold. Her husband tucked his yellow rose boutonniere in the lapel of his gold tuxedo jacket.

Albert and Frances Ostrowski, who reside at 29 Montague, Belleville, were united in marriage May 26, 1925 at St. Stephen's Catholic Church of New Boston. He is retired from Garwood of Ypsilanti where he worked for 31 years.

The couple's family tree includes six children, Mrs. Edward (Marcella) Bialach of Romulus; Mrs. Walter (Isabel) Wilson, deceased; Casimer, George and Edward (Albert) of Belleville and Frank of South Lyon. There also are 18 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Bicentennial scout 'bash' held at camp

More than 600 teen-aged Girl Scouts held one of southeastern Michigan's first Bicentennial events, celebrating the country's founding 200 years ago. A recent weekend campout at the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's Camp Linden in Livingston County featured pioneer crafts and games punctuated with a modern note, a performance by a rock and blues jazz band. The event, planned by a team of Huron Valley Council adults and Girl Scouts, was called the "Bicentennial Bash."

Twenty-five booths featured demonstrations and displays of pioneer crafts such as candle making, cooking, quilt piecing and tying, needlework and making cornhusk dolls, rag dolls and calico flowers.

Among local troops participating were Cadette Troop 215 led by Margaret G. Shearrer of 30488 Prescott, Romulus, who featured a fire starters booth. Belleville's Cadette Troop 419 displayed needlework under the leadership of Sienna Wyniemo of 46141 Village Green.

Keogh.

The $7500 fringe benefit for the self-employed.

You make your own way when you're self-employed. And that includes the "fringe benefits" like a retirement fund.

HR-10

But now thanks to new provisions in the Keogh Plan (HR10) you can build a pretty nice retirement for yourself. Because Federal law has raised the new Keogh limits to as much as 15% of your annual income up to $7500 for a tax-free retirement fund.

Tax-Free

That's right, you can now save up to $7500 per year tax-free! Quite an improvement over the old Keogh limit of 10% or $2500 per year. Yet because these funds go directly toward your retirement, it's important for you to invest them wisely. In a way that provides a secure and substantial return for your dollar. At Wayne Federal Savings, your Keogh funds will earn the highest interest available while they're fully insured by the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp. Plus, you have a choice of all these accounts.

For beginning your Keogh fund, there's our 5 1/4% regular Passbook Savings Account. You'll earn daily interest with no minimum deposit, and a compounded effective annual yield of 5.35%.

For annual Keogh planning, there's our 6 1/2% Savings Certificate Account. It's $1,000 or more on deposit for one year, and it pays a compounded effective annual yield of 6.66%.

Next, there's our 6 3/4% Savings Certificate Account. It's also $1,000 or more, and when left on deposit for 2 1/2 years it pays a compounded effective annual yield of 6.92%.

Then, there's our 7 1/2% Savings Certificate Account. Again, $1,000 or more on deposit, in this case, for 4 years pays an effective annual yield of 7.71% when compounded.

Finally, it's our new 7 3/4% Savings Certificate Account. You'll earn the highest savings interest rate possible with this new 6 year certificate for $1,000 or more. 7.97% is its compounded effective annual yield.

$7500

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from Savings Certificate Accounts.

SCOUTS SUPER SALES GALS — Recent profits from a Tupperware sales campaign have added to the "kitty" which Girl Scout Troop 535 of Elwell Elementary School is trying to fatten. In order to earn funds for a proposed trip to Girl Scout Camp in the nation's capitol, the troop was aided by two mothers, Sylvia Weedon (left) and Jennie Prohaska (right) who held a Tupperware party to aid the coffers. Local dealer, Helen Akans (center), holds the check which bears 15 percent of the total $874.33 sales.

Scouts earn funds for trip to Capitol

In order to earn funds for a proposed trip to Girl Scout Camp in Washington, D.C., scout troop 535 of Elwell Elementary School has been selling Tupperware with sales totaling $874.33. Of that they will receive 15 percent plus a bonus for a couple of bookings.

The girls, with their mothers' help, have also sponsored monthly bake sales and worked on still another project, the sale of crafts made by the scouts and also home baked goods, after the recent Elwell spring art and music program.

Two mothers, Jennie Prohaska and Sylvia Weedon, sponsored a Tupperware party which also added to the coffers. Local dealer, Helen Akans, thanked the buyers with the largest purchases by rewarding their daughters with special prizes. Becky Weedon received five silver dollars, Dawn Whitcomb a ball magnifying mirror and Michelle Prohaska a set of Tupperware ice tups.

The troop, sponsored by the Elwell PTO, is planning to visit the nation's capitol in June.

Romulus Senior Citizens plan for future activities

Plans for future programs were discussed at the recent senior citizens pot luck birthday meeting. Among proposed activities were the autumn trip to the Smoky Mountains and the July 4th parade which the group plans to enter.

The bus trip, scheduled for Sept. 4 to 9, will cost each person approximately $100 plus meals. The parade will involve building a float and preparing costumes for the riders.

Bicentennial dresses, which will be worn by the senior women during all commemorative events, were modeled by Bernice Lark, Agnes Croney, Dorothy Icenogle and Dorothy LaLonde.

Guest speaker for the day was Patricia Burns who explained a grant for senior citizens being considered by Help Line. She also asked for volunteers in setting up the program.

A relative of one of the club members, Strawdia Nance of South Carolina, was a guest for the day.

Those receiving congratulations for their May birth dates were Ernest Block, Agnes Croney, Amanda Green, Ella Hoagland, Willie Horn, Dorothy Icenogle, Joseph Lamar, Bernice Lark, Alberta Leach, Lorraine Richardson and David Rise.

Club president Celeste Fisher presented a gift of appreciation to Mary Butz for all her work as club coordinator. Dinner and bingo concluded the afternoon.

Millers report a busy May

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

May turned out to be rather a busy month for the Robert Miller family of Edgedale Drive, Belleville. First off, their daughter Michelle received her first holy communion at St. Anthony's and later was guest of honor at a reception given by her parents.

Those attending were her grandparents, the Leonard Mereckis and the Glenn Millers, and her aunt, Marilyn Mereckis, all of Belleville; and other relatives, Perry and Beverly Points, Kristin and Noelle, of Howell; Ed and Celia Lipinski, Jim Lipinski, Dave and Mary Lou Kelsey and Kevin, Scott and Susie, all of Dexter; Albert and Doris Peck and Diane of Ypsilanti; Walter and Mary Lou Ward and Sandy and Rusty of Washington, Mich., and others from Belleville, Jake and Ruby Miller, Ron Lipinski and Jim and Bobbie Walunas and Terri and Joe.

A week later, Michelle's brother marked his 7th birthday with his grandparents and aunts and uncles sharing his cake.

Then for a week in mid-month the Miller family motored to Florida where they included Busche Gardens, Cypress Gardens and Disney World on their itinerary and visited Kathy's uncle and aunt, the Bernie Mereckis at Winter Park. They also stopped at Rock City, Tenn.

Bride-elect surprised

What was supposed to have been a cradle shower in honor of her cousin, Marilyn Krause, turned out to be a surprise bridal shower for June bride-to-be, Diane Taylor of Romulus. Arriving with a pink and blue package in hand, Diane was completely flabbergasted when the group of 22 began singing "Here Comes the Bride."

The white wedding bells and lavender and blue streamers which adorned the room also had her stumped before the chorus began.

Mrs. Krause, the "supposed" honoree, was co-hostess for the miscellaneous event along with Cindy Lentz of Southgate, Roberta Sawicki of Wayne and Trudy Mills of Romulus.

Two ice breaker games were played after which socializing was the main order of the evening. Diane's gifts, which were heaped in and around a yellow hamper, were opened with help from two future attendants, Jayne Carroway of Wayne and Linda Smith of Romulus.

Americana--subject of new Belleville books

With so many Americans harking back to their early heritage, Aldren A. Watson's book on the early American furniture maker seems a timely topic. Along with another tome by Gladys Taber on country life and Gunhild Jorgensen's how-to's on China painting, interested readers might find just the book they're seeking at the Belleville Public Library, located at 167 Fourth Street.

NON-FICTION
 "Country Furniture; the Craftsman and their Craft" by Aldren A. Watson. Describes, with illustrations, the history, community and daily life of the early American furniture maker, the types of wood he chose, his shop, tools, techniques and business affairs.
 "Country Chronicle" by Gladys Taber. A large illustrated edition on country life in Connecticut which includes a series on cookery.

 "The Techniques of China Painting" by Gunhild Jorgensen. Translated from the Danish by Hugh Young, the book is a translation of Porcelainsmalingstrog for strog, or in plain English, China painting.
BIOGRAPHY
 "All Things Bright and Beautiful" by James Herriot. The story of James Herriot.

 "Maverick: the Story of Robert Six and Continental Airlines" by Robert J. Serling. This story of Robert F. Six, head of Continental Airlines and sometime husband of Ethel Merman, portrays the lure of pioneer flying, the adventure of big business dealings and the excitement of his forays into show business.

"Elizabeth: the Life and Career of Elizabeth Taylor" by Dick Sheppard. A detailed biography of the tempestuous and much publicized actress Elizabeth Taylor, who has been a motion picture star since her debut in National Velvet more than 30 years ago.

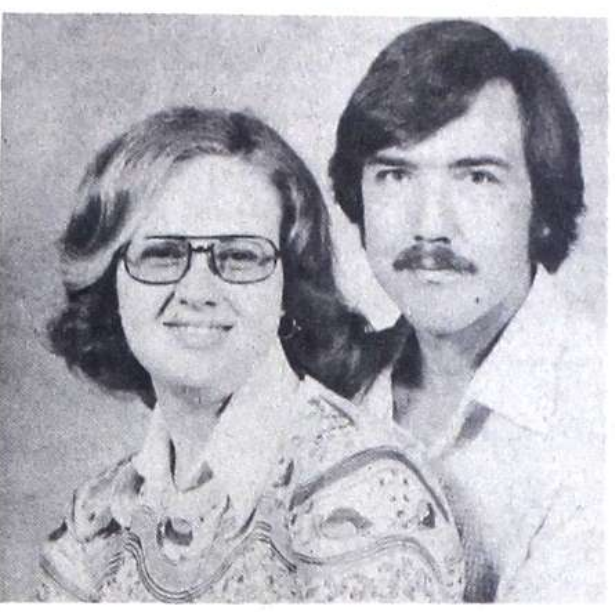

FICTION
 "Cashelmara" by Susan Howatch. Against the background of rising Irish independence, three generations of the English de Salis family and the women they marry, fight to keep the family's great house at Cashelmara.

"Cookson" by Catherine McMullen. Story of the unselfish love between two brothers and the emotional awakening of a once austere and isolated young woman.

"High Crystal" by Martin Caidin. Cyborg Steve Austin is sent to the Peruvian interior to investigate a strange highway built more than two miles above sea level. "A Cry of Angels" by Jeff Fields. Narrated by 14-year-old Earl Whitaker, the novel relates the events in Quarrytown, Ga. in 1954.

SET ALTAR DATE — Nancy Ann Knudsen of Riverview and George Frank Bordt of Romulus are engaged and planning a Nov. 7 wedding. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Knudsen of 14740 Brookline Drive, Riverview, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bordt of 27630 Goddard Road, Romulus. Know your ham

Ham is the meat from a hog's hind leg. If a ham is labeled "fresh," "cured" or "cured and smoked" it must be cooked before serving unless it is also labeled "fully-cooked."

A ham which is "fully-cooked" or has been canned requires no additional cooking, but some people prefer to heat these hams before serving to enhance flavor.

Quotes worth quoting--

"Any coward can fight a battle when he's sure of winning; but give me the man who has pluck to fight when he's sure of losing. That's my way, sir, and there are many victories worse than defeat."

Out of the lockerooms

T-shirts: Wear them as a piece of art work

What's next for the t-shirt?

Now that they've been alphabetized, advertised, glamorized, commercialized, starred, spangled, sequined, tied-dyed and wackily packaged, it would seem as though there was nothing left for the t-shirt to do but revert to its humble origins as locker room, work room, and children's wear.

Or would it? Fashion is not about to the casually chic and always comfortable t-shirt.

Just when it appears can do to dress-up and adorn this most basic of styles has been done, there comes what may be the ultimate in t-shirting — the t-shirt as a work of art — original, signed, reflection of our times in its themes.

Each shirt is signed by its artist and accompanied by a hang-tag bearing a descriptive and explanatory quote from its artist.

These very special, very unusual shirts are certain to bring out the Medici in you and let you be a patron of the arts. After all, what better way is there to back the arts than to put art on your back or frame it?

T-shirts can be stylish

Rather than wearing your heart on your sleeve, wear your dream-girl on your shirt. A long haired lovely adorns this screenprinted shirt of Kodol polyester and cotton. It's part of an original signature collection of shirt artworks from "Circus Maximus" by Forum. Or try a shower of petals to give a tantalizing feeling. This screen print on a Kodol polyester and cotton singleknit actually is signed by its artist, L.L. Becker. She called the work "Hidden Perspectives" and adds: "A petal for your thoughts."

In wool, cotton, straw

Fashion emphasizes natural

Fashion is in a spring fever of enthusiasm for the natural fibers. Once again, wool and cotton are the heroes. This return to natural resources for fabrics is happening for several reasons — partly because of the petroleum squeeze, which is being felt in the polyester industry already, and partly because of a natural consumer reaction against a steady diet of synthetics.

Doubleknits have been done to death. Furthermore, as the temperature rises, women remember the airiness and comfort of natural fibers that absorb moisture instead of holding it against the body, something to consider when planning a warm-weather wardrobe.

Biggest success story of the season, naturally, is the big-top dress. Most women will want to add a wide wrap belt, which instantly transforms it into the most gloriously bouyant shirt-waist of your life. The extra buoyancy, achieved through fullness of cut, is most flattering if there is no extra fullness of figure underneath. Try one of these "big tops" in lightweight woven wool and see how gracefully it swirls around your legs, making the most of a trim figure. Warming up to the subject of warm-weather fashions, French and American designers have created ready-to-wear collections in natural colored cotton muslin. For daytime there are plenty of skirts with flip and flare in every length. Back wrap styles are popular; so are flat stomach panels with softness shirred in on either side. This latter design particularly is fetching, but you'd better have the flat stomach to put under it.

Natural muslin is turned into sophisticated pantsuits too, with shirtjackets tailored as carefully as if they were cut in the most expensive couturier fabric. On the more casual side, muslin overshirts with peasant embroidery are so plentiful you'll think a folk-dance festival is coming to town. These shirts look marvelous with natural muslin slacks in a ripple-textured cotton that needs no ironing.

By the way, if your natural fashion instincts include an instinctive aversion to the steam iron, you'll be happy to learn that a small percentage of polyester often is blended with these natural colored cottons — just enough to make the muslin scene as carefree as it is attractive.

After sunset, keep right on being a naturalist. Caftans of sunny colored wools will dress you in divine comfort on cool spring nights. As evenings get warmer, shift to gauzy cotton caftans which frequently are lavished with East Indian embroidery for surprisingly little cost. They're cool and comfortable as a nightgown and just as alluring. Enough of you shows through so that you'll want to be in perfect shape.

If there's room for improvement in your figure, start dieting now. The easiest way to lose unwanted pounds and inches is with Diet food which can be substituted for one regular meal as needed.

Handbags have gone the natural route, too. Canvas totes, quilted chintz satchels and chamois leather shoulder bags are your best bets for Spring. For sunny days, there's nothing newswier than the Chinese straws now blowing in the wind. Clutch at straw bags, and don't overlook the flattery of a natural straw hat. Wear as big a brim as you dare, and wind a different colored scarf around the crown to complement your different costumes. Straws are relatively inexpensive, and they work with all your suntime clothes. They're a classic example of how easy it is to be a natural beauty now.

We're proud of our new generation of graduates...
but where will they be tomorrow?

Right now, it's graduation time, time for celebrations, for parties and for gifts...but tomorrow, after all the honors have been bestowed, our grads will be looking to the future. Some will choose to continue their education, others will enter the business world now. Sooner or later, all will decide where they can best begin and build their careers. All of us have a definite interest in the future of these young people, and we'll all benefit if graduates find opportunities here. We invite you to join in our efforts to make our community a good place to live, a good place to shop, a good place to work, and a good place to raise a family.
